grive here on Subgroup the 26th. It is reported that this thatement is to be found in a late New Zealand paper, but we have falled to meet with it in our files. The Postwho southed here on the Australia last Monday, positive y stated to him that the steamers would hereafter leave San Francisco on Saturday instead of Monday. Mean-time Messrs. Hackfeld & Co., the agents here, state that they have no information of the proposed change. If the change should really be made, and the boats put on sufficient steam to enable them to reach this port in time to transact their business and get off before Sunday morning, there will be no cause for complaint; but our com-munity will doubledly demur to seeing the day of rest broken by the arrival and departure of the mail or any other steamers. And we shall expect that the authorities will forbid the opening of the Custom House on Sunday. With the object of accelerating the San Francisco mail service and providing for the probable trade require-ments, the Pacific Mati Co. have applied for and obtained permission from the contracting Governments to send either the City of Pekin or the City of Tokio from San Francisco to the Colonies, for the purpose of being inspected and substituted, if uncessary, as a mail boat under the contract for either the City of New York or City of Sydney —N. SATURDAY, MARCH 20. AFTER WEEKS of vigorous battling, the shedding of much ink and the display of rhetoric and well-turned periods against the ADVERTISER's position on the currency question, the Gazette of this week gracefully wheels into the line where we have been standing all along, declares we have none too much silver coins in the country for business needs, and opposes the proposition of putting a duty on silver imported here. Well, better a late recuntation than none at all.

A WRITER in the Gazette advocates the reconstruction of the Supreme Court. He would "Abolish the system of Circuit Judges and increase the number of Judges of the Supreme Court to five. Let a judge of the Supreme Court reside on Hawaii, one on Mani and a third on Kausi, leaving two in Hawaii, one on Mani and a third on Kausi, leaving two in Honolulu, and leaving it to the Court to decide which of the four associates must reside out of Honolulu. Let the justice on each island, besides attending to the business prescribed for the Circuit Judges hold the jury terms on his

"Twice each year and at other than jury terms let the five justices sit in banco in Honolulu for the hearing and disposition of law matters on appeal. In Honolulu, two justices could easily attend to the business of this place." This may sound very well in theory, but we apprehend it would fail in practice. We doubt if either of the present judges of the Supreme Court would care to reside on Hawaii, Maui or Kauai. And would the necessarily attendant members of the bar on those Islands find sufficient law business to make a living? Then again, provision would have to be made for a regularly employed clerk of the Court and an interpreter for each Island. We are however of opinion that it would be an improvement on the present construction of the Supreme Court were there four instead of three judges, so that in case of the absence of one from the country there would always be a majority here.

In our issue of last week it was stated that Government had in contemplation a measure to be brought before the coming session of the Legislature, having for its object the condification and revision of the taxation laws; but we are not informed as to the nature of the amendments that will be proposed. We are not aware that there have been serious or well-grounded complaints that taxes generally are burdensome or excessive in this Kingdom, but that they are somewhat unequal in their operation is conceded by all who have given the matter serious consideration. The sum of five dollars, which is the amount of the taxes paid towards the support of Government by the man who owns no land or other property, bears no proportionate comparison with the amount paid by the large owner of real estate, houses, goods and ships. It is generally a harder task for the poor man to scrape together his five dollars than it is for the rich man to give his cheque for one hundred or five hundred dollars, as the case may be. And thus taxation operates unequally.

Another tax which operates unequally on the poor and the rich, is the road tax. The kanaka who owns no land and who goes barefoot, pays two dollars a year towards keeping the roads in repair; and the rich landed proprietor, who may own miles of territory bordering on the roads, repair; and the rich landed proprietor, who may own miles of territory bordering on the roads, besides a carriage, carts, oxen and horses, pays no more than two dollars-and if he is over fifty years of age, or if the rich person is a woman, he or she is exempt from the tax. Justice would seem to demand that those who get the most ben-efit from the public roads should contribute the most for keeping them in repair. The law of 1876 in relation to taxation, is in violation of the principle of the Constitution, wherein it is declared that each member of society has a right to be protected by the government in the enjoyment of his life, liberty and property, and therefore he shall be obliged to contribute his proportional share to the expense of such protection. We refer now to the system of double taxation which has been practiced since the enactment of the law of 1876, whereby real property is not only assessed at its full value, but any mortgage that may be upon the property is also assessed for the full amount of the bond. Thus a house and lot that may be properly valued at $2,000, and which is mortgaged for its full value, is made to pay taxes to the government on $4,000. The practice which was followed previous to the enactment of 1876, was that when the creditor was taxed for the amount of a debt owing him, the debtor was allowed to deduct that amount from the value of the property pledged as security. This was fair, just, and moreover in accordance with the Constitutional provision above alluded to, as thereby each person would be contributing his proportional share to the support of Government. But the present system is clearly double taxation.

Another illustration is afforded in the case of plantations, the capital stock of which is taxed to the corporation, and the shares as well, to the individual owners.

In looking over our exchanges we notice that this same question of double taxation has recently been discussed in the Legislature of California where the doctrine for which we contend was very strongly maintained; and also in the Legislature of Massachusetts. We read that there are about $450,000,000 in the latter state of mortgaged property, on which the mortgagors are compelled to pay taxes. The relief needed, and which is now asked of the Legislature for the third or fourth time, is that the taxes on this enormous amount of property shall be paid by the mortgagees to the extent of their interest in the property taxed. This great injustice in Massachusetts as well as in Haweii, falls heavily upon the industrious and middling classes, through the existing laws, which not only tax at full valuation a house which the representative owner has not paid for, but also tax at full value the mortgaged debt secured by the same piece of property, thus effecting double taxation upon many pieces of proper-ty. Last year a bill of relief was passed in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, but was defeated in the Senate. An analyzation of the principles upon which the tax on mortgage notes is based, and the validity of the law imposing it, may be illustrated as follows: Suppose A has $5,000 and B has $5,000, in cash, for which they are taxed, and with these amounts they jointly purchase a piece of real estate, which is assessed for the sum paid -$10,000. In such a case, under theexisting law, they will be taxed for $5,000 each. Afterwards B purchases A's interest in the property for $5,000, and gives a mortgage for that amount; thus, although B has in fact no more property debt of $5,000, yet he is taxed on $10,000, and A is taxed as before, for $5,000. Under these conditions taxes are levied on $15,000, whereas only $10,000 of property exists. The foregoing fairly illustrates the whole theory and practice of our present system. And we submit that the point is plain, that to tax a bond and mortgage on land-an estate in land-as personal property, while the same land pays a tax as real estate for its full value, without reference to the mortgage, is double taxation on the same property, and is unjust, burdensome, and uncon-stitutional. We confidently look to the coming Legislative Assembly to so amend the taxation than he had before, but has simply created a

laws that this wrong shall be righted. THE MILLINERY STORE OF THE LATE
